

WHERE DID CABBAGES COME FROM ??

In Artificial Selection, humans breed plants (and animals) by selecting desirable features like large fleshy flowers or stems (or more milk production or thicker wool etc) over hundreds of years.

The effect of Artificial Selection in a Population

This process is continued for hundreds of generations to get the desired traits.